Searching in your subscribed journals

- Scroll down the customised page and enter your term, phrase or simplified question into the search box shown.

Main Search Page

- Your Basic Search displays within the Search History of the Ovid research platform. The database being searched is named, YourJournals@Ovid.

- From the blue navigational bar, you can:
- Search: undertake research in the Your Journals@Ovid database.
- Journals: browse all your subscribed full text journals individually.
- Multimedia: access images, videos, and podcast audio.
- My Workspace: save records to an integrated storage space for all your research.
- What's New: review recent Ovid updates.

Basic Search

- Enter a complete phrase, question, or term in English.
- Ensure Include Related Terms is selected to broaden your search.
- Apply limits to reduce the number of records.
- Only the Basic Search mode uses the relevancy limit.

Note: Basic Search results automatically display in order of relevancy. Use the "Sort By" option to change this default to a different setting.

Advanced Search

- Do NOT enter long phrases or questions in the Advanced Search mode.
- Enter an individual term or combine multiple terms with Booleans.
- Example 1: diabetes type 1
- Example 2: ((diabetes type 1 OR diabetes type 2) AND self manage*)
- Advanced Searches are run in the MP Fields of the database.
- Diabetes type 1.mp. [mp=title, abstract, full text, caption text]
- You can use truncation and other Ovid syntax in Advanced Searches.
- You can also run Author, Title, and Journal searches.
